Get ready for colder weather with tips to save.

Keep your bill down when temperatures fall.

It's been a mild summer here in central Maryland, but we can't predict what fall and winter will bring. If you're looking for ways to reduce your energy usage, here are five ways to keep your home energy efficient through the colder months to come.

1. Adjust your thermostat.

It's simple: Set your thermostat to 68° (if your health permits). For each degree you lower the thermostat, you can save up to 5% on heating costs.*

4. Use BGE's online account tools.

Understand your usage, sign up for high usage alerts and access your Home Energy Report with a free BGE online account. Sign up today.

2. Maintain your heating system.

Home heating is the single highest energy user. Make sure your heating system is running efficiently by scheduling a service check.

3. Use the sun!

Open window curtains during the day to allow sunlight to naturally heat your home. Close them at night to keep heat in.

5. Run your ceiling fan in reverse.

This can help the room heat more evenly and can make you feel warmer, allowing you to lower your thermostat.
